A GIGANTIC TELESCOPE.

A gigantic telescope will probably be erected at the Paris Exposition in 1900 and afterward brought to some high alcessories and buildings for accompanysal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation. Heals the Sores.

COLD HEAD Protects the membrane from additional cold.

Restores the Senses of Tasta and Sorell Inflammation. Heals the Sores. Tasta and cold. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. It will cure Hay-fever. A particle is applied in each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Draggists or by mail.

James Fair, the multo-minionance of San Francisco, is considering Professor McGeorge's startling proposition, which is nothing less than the building of a telescope with more than 10 times the light-giving power of the monster Lick and on such lines as to make it possible for from twenty to thirty persons to view the giants of the starry space at the same time. A novel and most valuable feature of the proposed instrument is that the exhibition phases, by which a multitude can view the heavens at one time, will not interfere with the calm work of the exact scientist, who could be engaged simultaneously with the populace in viewing the wonders of the heavens. Professor McGeorge was formerly the director-general of Melbourne observatory, but he has been living in Paris for about seven years, and while there he has evolved the plans of the new instrument. He says the principals in-volve wholly new mechanical appliances in optics, though they in no manner detract from the well-known princi-pals used in the construction of the largest reflectors. The telescope would be on the re-flective principle, and intended more for the use of a paying public than for pure astronomy, although to the latter it would render incalculable service. From twenty to fifty people could view heavenly objects at the same time to-gether without preventing an astronomer from continuing his work through the same instrument.

The construction of the mirror would be so peculiar and so cheap that it would be made of twenty-foot diame-ter, with ten times the light-giving power of the Lick telescope, and yet at a cost not greater than it, $1,000,000 for at first blush, it is now quite evident that Senator Fair and the late directorgeneral of the Melbourne observatory will soon co-operate in such a way as to give the Parisians a great show for money and the world the largest instrument for observing the mists of the milky way that has ever even hinted at before. Senator Fair says that if the instrument is constructed for use at the Paris Exposition he will undoubtedly favor the project of moving it to California, where it will remain a monument to his name and the chief wonder of the age.

bridge which is carefully avoided by wedding couples because of the tradition which surrounds it spans a stream called the Goldbrook, in the parish of Hoxne, near Eye, in the county of Suf-folk, England. Standing in the centre of an open field at Hoxne is an obelisk to the memory of Edmund, King of the East Angles, who was killed by the Danes in 870. On the site of the monument stood an oak tree, in the branches of which the King took refuge from his foes. At nightfall he emerged from his leafy hiding-place and secreted himself under the above-mentioned bridge. A wedding party passing over the bridge at night observed the King's gold spurs glittering in the moonlight, and in this way he was betrayed to his enemies, who took him back to the oak tree and shot him with arrows. Local tradition has it that many years ago the existing inscription of the event was followed by the words: "Cursed be the wedding party that passes over this bridge." No such words are now visible, but the tradition is so well known that bridal parties prefer taking a circuituous route rather than pass over Goldbrook bridge.

We are all ready to begin the Holiday campaign. A stock of usefuls—couched with the dainty fingers of oddity and originality—just what everybody will be glad to receive—and just what you may be proud to give. And when you add up the cost for all—for all hands—you are going to be surprised how far your dollars have gone.

We have got this advice to give—while never in the fifty odd years we have kept store have we had such an immense variety as will greet you now—it will be wise to shop early and keep out of the jam of the last days. So get out your pencil and paper and make up your list.
